

Grylloblatid

Grylloblatids are insects that need to be in cold places, which is why the cave environment is ideal for them. Today, they are found in a limited number of places in Oregon, Washington, Canada, and Alaska. Grylloblatids that live in caves are white. Ones that live on the surface have a darker color from exposure to the sun.

Oregon Caves National Monument